Life guru gives students a helping business hand

AN EXECUTIVE and life coach and self-declared 'fairy godmother in a suit' has been giving students a helping hand into the business world. Cheryl Donnison, of Lumina Coaching, based at Ben Rhydding Drive, Ilkley, gave a presentation to school and university students at Bradford University recently as part of the Think Business at Bradford event as part of National Enterprise Week. The Women's Enterprise Day was due to be headed by highly sought-after London tailor Imtaz Khaliq, presenting the tale of her rise in the fashion industry. Sadly, she was unable to attend, and Ms Donnison became the day's main attraction. She used the story of Cinderella to illustrate a few important tips which could help young people get ahead in business - about setting high goals, and how to go about achieving them.
